

Airbnb International Youth Fudan Scholarship Application Measures

School of International Relations and Public Affairs

Fudan University

In order to cultivate the future international youth leaders and promote the development of education in Fudan University, and reflect the both sides' great attention to Chinese and foreign cultural exchanges and the common goal for international community. Airbnb has set up the first International Youth Fudan Scholarship in Fudan University to help Fudan students to study and gain a rich cultural experience throughout the world with a subsidized accommodation model. The study destinations include more than 65,000 cities in Airbnb's 191 countries operating globally.

In order to foster multinational talent, the project will also provide opportunities to participate in Airbnb's local community practice and social governance projects over the same period. Therefore, the scholarship is not only for students who need financial assistance, but also focus on the actual academic needs and related research needs of the applicant. According to "Airbnb International Youth Fudan Scholarship Selection Program", the assessment rules developed are as follows:

I Scholarship Target

Fudan University students (undergraduate, MSc, PhD and MPA students) who are enrolled in the exchange programs (including Class I and II). In order to better match the global social practice resources, students with relevant academic needs and research needs will be given priority, including the following disciplines: international relations, international politics, public management, diplomacy, public policy, and public administration.

In line with the principle of tolerance and respect, Airbnb global advocacy of non-discrimination policy will be reflected in the scholarship. The scholarship will give priority to special groups and female applicants as appropriate.

II Scholarship Set

The scholarship includes a long-term program and “the Belt and the Road ” program.
